

Billie Dove

Billie Dove is a native of New York. After a short career as a model for some of the country's greatest illustrators she went on the stage. Recently she was engaged to appear at the head of distinguished casts in a special series of photoplays. She is but nineteen years old. Her eyes are large and expressive. She has light brown wavy hair.

Surely Inalienable Right.

Almost any alibi will do in a pinch. Old John Smithers of Richmond, in the days of long ago, was one of those "shufflers" individuals, too willing for words and of no value to himself or anybody else. His wife kept a rail road boarding house and tolerated him about the place as a sort of safety valve for her temper and used him as an errand boy to run to the grocery one afternoon, when it was about time to start the cooking for the evening meal, she could not find either him or the hired girl. At last she discovered them in the woodshed hugging and kissing to heat the hand. The girl fled and left him to face the music alone.

"Here you are," cried his indignantly wife, "morning and evening around with that young hussy, and me working my skin off my fingers to keep your worthless body and soul together. Now ain't you ashamed of yourself?"

"Humph!" returned old John, "I guess a man's got a right to some privileges in his own home, ain't he?" - Indianapolis News

Leaderless Orchestras.

There must be no despotism of leadership, not even in art, is the doctrine of the moderns. So in Moscow they have concerts given by orchestras without conductors. The soviet papers report that the performances were just as good, and what is more, the dignity of the performers was safeguarded by the absence of the conductor with his horn, a symbol of tyranny intolerable to the mob.

The soviet press adds that these performances substitute the musical as well as the political ideal.

SUFFERING IS BITTER AMONG RUSS REFUGEES

Women and Girls are Without Proper Clothing and Help Is Greatly Needed

GENSAN, Korea, Dec. 4.—Clothing is badly needed for Russian refugees from Vladivostok. There are pitiable sights everywhere. Girls are out in bitter weather without stockings or underclothing, the feet and wind plastering their single garments to their bodies. It has been necessary to remove women and children from the steamers, but accommodations on shore are lacking. Persons of every class are here, among them artists, musicians and admirals.

Batteries and Furs

SAFETY and convenience prompt a woman to put her furs in storage for the Summer—if she doesn't wear them.

The same reasons impel a motorist to put his battery in storage for the Winter—if he lays up his car.

An idle battery in an idle car deteriorates rapidly—especially in cold weather. And there's a ways danger of freezing, too.

We'll not only "store" your battery this Winter but return it to you practically new in the Spring. You'll be astonished how little it costs you.

Winter's just around the corner. See us about your battery now.
